

The sun shines on... basic rules

Sit on the floor in a circle. Someone (suggest a leader) starts in the middle and says "The sun shines on people who..." (choose an attribute from list below. If students have never played game before, do a few "conventional rounds" first – people who wear size 4 shoes / born in July etc etc).

All the people who share that attribute must swap places and the person from the middle must try to take one of their places, leaving a new person in the middle to say the next "The sun shines on.." thing.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who believes bullying is wrong.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who has stepped in to stop someone being bullied.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who has been the victim of some form of bullying at some point in their life.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who knows someone who has been bullied.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who thinks adults can be bullied as well as young people.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who could explain what cross-cutting is.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who has an idea why people might bully others.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who knows how you can show status in drama other than by using levels.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who can describe how a victim of bullying feels.

The sun shines on...

Anyone who played the passer by in the status lesson final performance.